

Domaine Henry Natter

Sancerre

The Natter family ferments their Sancerre with indigenous yeasts in large, old oak foudres and age the wine in the same vessels prior to bottling, so this is one of the rare “oak- aged” examples one can find in the region, albeit the oak being both large and quite neutral. Their 2019 Sancerre is lovely, offering up a pure and classy nose of green apple, gooseberry, lovely terres blanches minerality, fresh-cut grass, white flowers and a topnote of lime zest. On the palate the wine is bright, full-bodied, focused and complex, with a deep core, fine soil inflection, zesty acids and a long, ripe and very nicely balanced finish. A lovely Sancerre that will clearly age gracefully. 2021-2031.

Henry and Cécile Natter farm vines in the far western reaches of the appellation around Montigny. Their 2019 unfolds slowly, like a slow wake, revealing notes of green tea and tropical fruit. There's a fleshy coconut softness in its texture, and it finishes on warm florals.
