Chablis

Within the Chablis appellation, there are encouraging signs of some new, exciting domaines producing very good examples. The influence of a young generation is evident, with some of the producers to look out for being Domaine Orion...

Chablis 2023

Léa Schaller's 2023 Chablis villages bottling is a lovely wine, having been fermented and raised in stainless steel. She has just under two hectares of vines in the appellation, of which she still sells a small percentage of the crop to the cooperative. The wine offers up a fine bouquet of green apple, lime, flinty minerality, dried flowers and a topnote of citrus peel. On the palate the wine is bright, full-bodied, focused and zesty, with a lovely core of fruit, good soil signature, a nice spine of acidity and fine balance on the long, complex finish. This is very tasty right out of the blocks, but has the structure to also age nicely for ten to fifteen years. Good juice. 2025-2035+.

Chablis 2022

A fine combination of Chablis' cool characters—mineral notes and plenty of freshening acidity—with ripe, succulent and weighty fruit. Very nicely done. Lea Schaller runs this small family domaine in Préhy; 2019 was the first vintage.
