Deovlet Wines
Santa Barbara

Santa Barbara Chardonnay 2024

The 2024 Chardonnay (Santa Barbara County) comes from Zotovich, La Encantada and S&B. It's a touch richer and rounder than the vineyard-designate wines, but it reflects the same energy, minerality and verve that runs through the entire range. Toasted spices, marzipan, lime peel and sea spray unfurl with grace. As an entry-level wine, this is quite successful in conveying the character of the region in a slightly more approachable package.

91 pts- Billy Norris, Vinous Media, September 2026

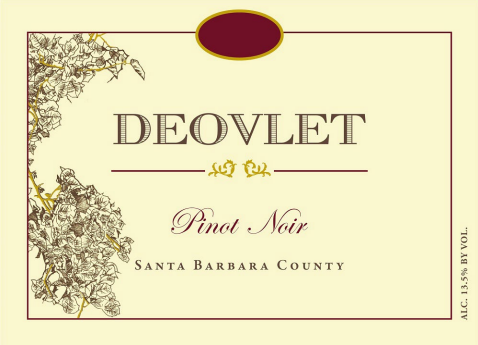

Santa Barbara Chardonnay 2023

Built around lots of Zotovich and Sanford & Benedict as well as La Encantada, the 2023 Chardonnay Santa Barbara County is another impressive wine that transcends its status as a "regional" bottling. It is a decidedly more weighty and broad expression of the Sta. Rita Hills, opening with honeyed orchard fruit, nougat and bread dough aromas, followed by a creamy, dense palate and a flashy, vibrant finish. .

93 pts- Matthew Luczy, The Win Advocate, October 2025

The 2023 Chardonnay (Santa Barbara County) massively overdelivers at the $35 price point, with its weighted peach fruit lending balance to the inner phenolic tension. Deliciously weighted and propulsive, the 2023 is impeccably balanced and impressively complex. An echo of flint lingers on the clean, cool-toned finish.

92 pts- Billy Norris, Vinous Media, August 2025

Santa Barbara Pinot Noir 2024

The 2024 Pinot Noir (Santa Barbara County) massively over delivers. A blend of Zotovich, La Encantada and S&B, this really translates the sites, taking the best of each and harmonizing them with aplomb. Juicy, saline acids and bright red-toned fruit race through from start to finish. The 2024 has great vibrancy and clarity, with energy to burn and a svelte, polished frame.

92 pts- Billy Norris, Vinous Media, September 2026

Santa Barbara Pinot Noir 2023

The 2023 Pinot Noir Santa Barbara County is an overperforming overview of Deovlet, composed of the three mainstay sites in the portfolio: Zotovich, La Encantada and Sanford & Benedict. Aromas of dried herbs, Earl Grey tea and turned earth are followed by a silky, rich palate and a gently saturated finish, framed with savory flourishes and a touch of floral perfume.

92 pts- Matthew Luczy, The Wine Advocate, October 2025

The 2023 Pinot Noir (Santa Barbara County) is a blend of La Encantada, Zotovich and Sanford & Benedict. Black tea, exotic spices and light red fruit are the signatures. It's a very good appellation-level wine that delivers plenty of Sta. Rita Hills character in an approachable style. Soft and pliant, the 2023 is very easy to enjoy.

90 pts- Billy Norris, Vinous Media, August 2025